Lazy, lethargic, lax land

Just to keep the democracy of the country going, mostly as a show piece, public funds amounting to God-knows-how-many-thousand-crore rupees are blown away once in five years in the general elections to the Parliament as well as State Legislatures, apart from a few lakh smaller units of administration namely City Municipal Corporations, Town Municipalities and Gram Panchayats across the land. Each elected member of these bodies are to represent a certain number of people in their jurisdiction or constituency. A Member of Parliament represents 25 lakh people, a Member of the State Legislative Assembly about a tenth of that number and a member of a City Corporation such as MCC about 15,000 residents of the respective ward (MCC has 65 wards). Having taken a look at the anatomy of the make-up of democracy, one can take a pot shot at the profile of the elected members and the public perception of their style of functioning, thanks to the ever alert media.

First and foremost, although the membership of the foretold elected bodies amounts to more than an office of profit (given the enviable salaries periodically hiked unanimously and huge cash equivalent of the plethora of perks and privileges at their command), there is no stipulation relating to their credentials to qualify for the exalted position. Equally important point is that it is not compulsory for any member to work while holding the post, although members are expected or required to do some home work and come to office. Their laziness, lethargy, laxity have all official sanction.

Having endured for long the yawning gap between work and wages, people who constitute the country's workforce in various sectors of the economy have been often raising the high-decible slogan equal wages for equal work while the gap is only widening. The often publicised figure of unemployed people in the country, thereby meaning they are idle 24x7 is an unmistakable measure of the nation's laziness index. The rest of the population is wearing the badge of lethargy and laxity on their sleeves to varying extent. If anyone wants to personally experience these features, one has to only visit any government office or site of civil works involving road construction with public funds. In a certain sense, equal work is already getting them equal wages. Mercifully, some work is being done by babudom and labour class.

A recent study by a Stanford University research team covering 46 countries of the world and taking the number of steps for walking as a parameter of work has revealed that Indians figure among the laziest in the world. It is anybody's guess on the rank India or Indians would achieve if a set of other parameters of work were included in the study. The nation is grateful to the rest of the masses who are at work in every sense of the term.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

The other day I was struck by an ad for a mobile phone. Ads featuring mobile phones are even more common than ads featuring Amitabh Bachchan. So what was it about this ad that I found so unusual? It was that the ad was promoting the mobile phone not as a mobile phone but as a camera with which to take pictures, preferably of oneself. Mobile phones are increasingly being marketed not as phones but as cameras with which to take selfies, or as fashion accessories, or as mini computers, or anything else that makes you appy. Such surrogate marketing is nothing new. Makers of washing machines sell their products in the rural heartland of Punjab not for the purposes of cleaning laundry but as giant lassi makers. In what was then called Calcutta, the mid-1960s saw an acute shortage of baby food. No, there wasn't an unprecedented baby boom in the metropolis. The reason for the shortage of baby food was that the stuff wasn't going into babies but into the gulab jamuns and rassagullas that the local confectioners were making, having discovered that formula milk a la Nestle and Co., made for more delectable sweetmeats than did regular cow milk. — Jug Suraiya in The Times of India.

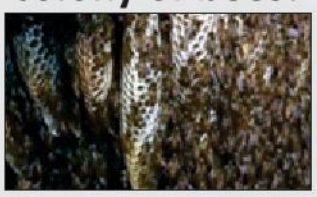
Living with a free colony of bees!



Beijing: The sight of a single bee buzzing around is enough to drive some people into a frenzy, but one family in China has somehow been living with an entire beehive in their living room for 12 years. They even collect the honey from it and sell it for a small profit.

A Pear video that recently went viral in China shows a home in Gunagnan, China, where bees have been living inside the wooden furniture for 12 years. Owner Yongfu Li says that they simply came in one day and started building their hive. There was a wedding in the family that day, and he viewed the arrival of the bees as a good omen, so the man just allowed them to build a home inside his living room. Taking the fengshui interpretation to heart, Yongfu Li let the bees build their hive and started collecting the honey they produced, three times a year. Which he then sells for around 100 RMB ($15) a pound, raking in a total of $450 a year. Not a bad deal.

Boy's breathless sleep!

London: Liam Derbyshire was born with a very rare congenital disease that causes him to stop breathing every time he falls asleep. Doctors told his parents that he wouldn't live past six weeks, but the boy has defied the odds and will soon turn 18-years-old.

Ondine's Curse is a very rare condition. It is estimated that only 1,500 people around the world suffer from it, but Liam's case is one of the most extreme. Because he stops breathing whenever he doses off, the boy has been sleeping in a medical bed his entire life, connected to a life support system that feeds oxygen into his lungs and monitors his vitals.

Liam Derbyshire's room is a mix between a normal teenager's room and a hospital, with complex LEGO creations – his favourite hobby – blending with medical gear and wires. "The really unusual thing about Liam is that he had a cancer growing inside of him and he had a problem with his bowel," said Dr. Gary Connett. "I couldn't find any reports of children who had all these problems and survived. It's quite amazing. I would say he's unique worldwide."

School teacher from Kodagu dies under mysterious circumstances

- Family suspects murder by her alcoholic husband
- Husband taken into custody by Police

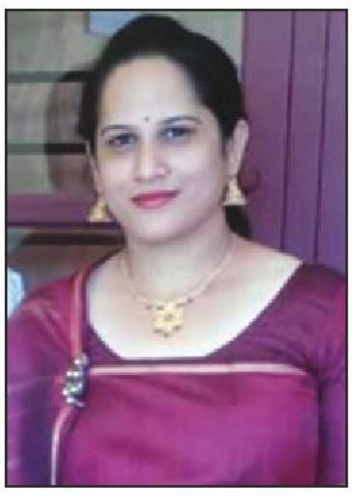
Mysuru, July 22 (SPN &BCT)- A 33-year-old school teacher died under mysterious circumstances at Hebbal Second Stage in city yesterday and according to her family members, she was murdered by her husband. The husband has now been taken to custody by the Police for interrogation and further investigation is on.

Pavin

The woman has been identified as Pandira Sujaya, daughter of Pemmanda P. Subramanya, a coffee planter at Kutta in Kodagu district. She married Pandira Pavin Thimmaiah of Galibeedu Village near Madikeri in Kodagu. Sujaya was a teacher at Euro Kids School at Hebbal.

According to family members, Sujaya had married Pavin 10 years ago after they fell in love. They later came to Mysuru in search of employment and had taken a house on rent near Sankranti Circle at Hebbal. Everything was hunky-dory in the beginning. However, later Pavin took to drinking and gambling.

He used to drink every day and tortured Sujaya, her family members alleged. He also was a marijuana addict, family members told the Police.



Pandira Sujaya

He was so much addicted to liquor that Pavin sold his own house to fund his vices. After emptying the cash, he targeted Sujaya for money and as Pavin was unemployed, Sujaya started working at Euro Kids School to maintain the family. Despite this, Pavin came home drunk and used to beat her up daily, alleged her family members.

In their statement to the Police, her family members said that Pavin used to bring some of his friends home to embarrass her. Unable to bear his harassment, Sujaya complained to her parents but they had advised her not to break family ties. They said that when Sujaya called her father last week pleading him to take her back to Kodagu, her family members told Pavin to bring her back if he was not able to support her.

Yesterday morning, Pavin had taken Sujaya to Brindavan Hospital at Jayalakshmipuram at 10 am and she was dead by the time she was brought there. The hospital staff found some injury marks on her neck and alerted the Hebbal Police. They shifted Sujaya's body to the mortuary.

Meanwhile, Pavin called up Sujaya's sister Sumana who works for Infosys and told her that her sister (Sujaya) was unwell and he had admitted her to Brindavan Hospital. After 10 minutes, he again telephoned her and said that Sujaya had passed away.

Pavin had told the hospital staff and Sujaya's parents that his wife had committed suicide. But he did not have an answer when he was asked how she committed suicide. As he kept on changing his statements, Sujaya's brother Pemmanda S. Kaverappa lodged a complaint with the Police suspecting Pavin's hand in his sister's death. The Hebbal Police have now taken Pavin into their custody and are investigating. Inspector Thimmegowda has registered a case. Sujaya's body was shifted to MMCR&I Mortuary and a post-mortem was conducted this morning.

Later, the body was handed over to the relatives at around 11 am. Last rites were performed at Chirashantidhama at Gokulam.

> "My sister Sujaya was tortured by her husband Pavin. He was unemployed and was an alcoholic and used to beat her up every day. On Thursday, she had called me up and told me that she would come to my house. Pavin had called me yesterday at 11 am and told me that Sujaya was not well and has been hospitalised. 10 minutes later, he again telephoned me to say that Sujaya was dead. I suspect that he has beaten her to death as her neck bore injury marks and there were blood stains in her mouth and nose. Her right ear-ring was also missing."

Mysuru, Mandya students protest against change in college timings

Mysuru, July 22 (RKB&DM)- Strongly condemning the Government's move to ban Student Unions in Colleges, over 50 members of the Akhila Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishat (ABVP) staged a demonstration in front of the DC's office here yesterday, as part of a Statewide stir.

Claiming that the Government's move was an insult to the Constitution and against the spirit of democracy, the protesters alleged that by banning Student Associations, the Government was creating an Emergency-like situation. Urging the Government to drop the move, the protesters warned of intensifying the protest if the Government went ahead with the ban.

They also protested against the order issued by the Department of Collegiate Education to commence the classes of Government First Grade Colleges at 8 am, saying that the early commencement of the classes would disturb their daily routine.

Students residing in the hostels and those who come from rural areas and spend a lot of time in travelling will be inconvenienced, they pointed out. While the Government said that it has changed the time-table to help students to cope with extra-curricular activities, the student said it cannot be implemented in all the Colleges.

At Mandya: Demanding withdrawal of circular on college hours that said classes will start from 8 am, hundreds of students of the Government First Grade College for Women staged a demonstration yesterday.

The students, after boycotting classes, went in a procession to the DC's Office on Mysuru-Bengaluru Road and staged a demonstration, urging the Government to withdraw the circular.

Claiming that the starting of classes at 8 am was of great inconvenience to students who come from far off places, the protesters maintained that poor bus facilitates in rural areas had only added to their woes. They urged the Government to come to their rescue by withdrawing the circular, which has caused a lot of inconvenience to students, specially those from rural areas.

Similar protests were held at Nagamangala and other parts of the district.

Woman held in fake marks card racket

Mysuru, July 22 (RK,SBD& NNN)- The City Crime Branch (CCB) Police have busted a fake marks card racket. This incident came to light with the arrest of a woman from whom the Police recovered hundreds of fake marks cards.

The arrested is Yashaswini, 45, resident of Gokulam. Including the Karnataka State Open University (KSOU), fake marks cards of several other Universities have been recovered. The accused was produced before the Magistrate last evening and for further investigation, she has been remanded to Police custody for four days.

Yashaswini was living separately from her husband, a resident of Vinayaknagar since seven to eight years. She was duping innocent boys and girls by convincing them of getting marks cards and collecting huge amounts of money and giving fake marks cards, it is said.

On Thursday, she was sitting in a car near Mini Vidhana Soudha in Nazarbad. As soon as she saw the Police Patrol vehicle, she was perturbed and immediately tried to escape. CCB Police Inspector Chandrakala and her staff, who became suspicious with her sudden movements, stopped her and searched her bags and found several marks cards.

On being questioned, Yashaswini confessed that it was fake marks cards. She said that Belagavi's Basavaraju and Arasikere's Kiran were selling the fake marks cards with her help to students and unemployed youth.

The Police finding that they were targeting the rural youth and cheating them by giving them fake marks cards, have intensified the investigation. Four other persons, who were taken into custody along with Yashaswini, have been released as they were found not to be involved. Apart from fake marks cards, even degree certificates have been recovered. Another source said that they were also trying to woo SSLC and PU students convincing them that they would get them marks cards and collect money from them.

The Police have still to find out who is printing the fake marks cards. The Police are active in this regard and sent investigation teams to Bengaluru, K.R. Nagar and other places. The CCB Police have handed over the investigation to Nazarbad Police.

Under the direction of the CCB ACP Gopal, Inspectors Chandrakala, Prasannakumar and their staff have arrested one of the accused of the fake marks card racket. Still the brains behind the racket and other main accused have to be arrested.

IMEI number changing racket kingpin arrested

Mysuru, July 22- The city Police, who had arrested two persons for tampering with IMEI (International Mobile-station Equipment Identity) number of mobile phones, have now arrested the kingpin of the racket.

The kingpin, who has been arrested is 50-year-old Raviprasad Khunja, a resident of Mangaluru. He had close contacts with Shoaib and Kasib, who were earlier arrested. They owned a shop on the K.T. Street and used to sell Chinese goods including electronic items. They used to procure stolen handsets, erase the original IMEI numbers of the handsets and reintroduce their own IMEI numbers.

The Police had seized over 30 mobile phone handsets, laptops, IMEI crackers, IMEI number changing software and equipment and computers.

Interrogating Shoaib and Kasib, the Police learnt that the kingpin was Raviprasad Khunja and he was arrested four days back. Raviprasad had managed to procure the IMEI number changing machine from abroad and had the relevant software to update and change the 15-digit number.

Once the IMEI numbers are changed, the handsets were sold in places including Mysuru, Mangaluru, Bengaluru, Chitradurga, Davangere and some other parts of Kerala too, making it difficult for the Police to track such numbers. Mostly criminals used such handsets to commit a crime and go untraced.

Taking cognisance of the gravity of altering the number and pose a threat to national security, the Police are now are exploring options to take stringent action against those indulging in the offence. The options include reporting of such cases to the National Investigating Agency (NIA) as there was the possibility of these fake devices being used for terrorist activities.

The Police will soon launch a drive to scan devices at outlets selling, and repairing mobile phones.

A team will be constituted under the Deputy Commissioner of Police (Crime) Dr. Vikram V. Amathe that will verify all mobile phone shops in the city.

Officers will check the equipment and the software being used, and in the event, if some suspicious activity is found, such shops will be sealed, the Police added.

Sir,

I read with interest the article, "Musings on Guru Poornima Day" by Prof. A.V. Narasimha Murthy (Star of Mysore dated July 15). I would like to share my humble opinion on Teacher's Day in the US.

AVN's opinion based on the information given by his daughter in the US is incorrect. Being a teacher myself I have always evinced keen interest about schools and their activities during my visits to the US. I want to submit that the schools in the US do celebrate Teacher's Day, with great interest and excitement, on the first full week of May every year, particularly the Tuesday of the week. They call it the Teacher Appreciation Week and it is celebrated at the national-level. It is a remarkable occasion for all to show their appreciation for not only current teachers but also honour former teachers like we do in India. The entire week is filled with different activities.

I appreciate AVN's information from history and mythology (Veda Vyasa, Krishna, Guru Nanak, Basavanna and, of course, Dr. Radhakrishnan) to drive home the role of a teacher in society.

Some information about Teacher's Day in the US and other countries while we are on the subject: The origin of National Teacher's Day in the US goes back to 1944, when an Arkansas teacher Mattye Whyte Woodridge started the movement by talking to political and educational leaders about the need for a National Teacher's Day. Later the National Education Association played a major role to identify Tuesday in the first week of May as National Teacher's Day.

Teachers are also remembered and honoured all over the world on different days such as, 7th March in Albania, 6th June in Bolivia, 22nd December in Cuba, 15th May in Mexico, 16th January in Thailand and so on.

Panel examining inclusion of Tulu, Kodava languages in Eighth Schedule

New Delhi, July 22- The Union government yesterday said that an internal committee of the Home Ministry was looking into inclusion of Tulu and Kodava languages in the Eighth Schedule of the Constitution as several law-makers have demanded expansion of the Schedule.

Kiran Rijiju

Responding to a private member's bill moved by B.K. Hariprasad (Congress), Minister of State for Home Affairs Kiran Rijiju told the Rajya Sabha that the official panel has been tasked to come out with the objective criterion on inclusion of more languages in the Schedule.

The Eighth Schedule of the Constitution currently recognises 22 languages while cases are pending for 16 other languages including Tulu and Kodava. Two previous expert panels, Pahwa Committee in 1996 and Sitakanta Mohapatra Committee in 2003, could not conclusively form the criteria to decide on inclusion of other languages.

Rijiju said the Centre had now set up a panel, headed by an Additional Secretary rank officer with members from the Ministry of HRD, Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, Department of Personnel and Training, Central Institute of Indian Languages (CIIL), Mysuru and the Sahitya Akademi to come up with a concrete solution. The issue had come up in the Upper House in April too when the Congress member Oscar Fernandes even sang a few lines in Tulu after he was prompted by his colleague Jairam Ramesh.

Festival shopping at JSS Urban Haat

Vastra Utsav till Aug. 7

Mysuru, July 22 (US&YDS)- As part of Varamahalakshmi festival, a 17-day Vastra Utsav-2017 organised jointly by the Union Ministry of Textiles and JSS Urban Haat commenced last evening at the latter's premises on Ring Road in Hebbal here.

Over 60 weavers, artisans and Co-operative Societies are participating in the Utsav exhibiting cotton and silk sarees in alluring texture and designs, embroidered bedsheets, towels, cushion covers, environment-friendly jewels, dress materials, clay items, bead works, metal works, handloom fabrics, toys, leather craft and many more.

Speaking on the occasion, JSS Mahavidyapeetha Executive Secretary Dr. C.G. Betsurmath said that such fairs would encourage artisans from all over the country and added that such programmes would be held throughout the year.

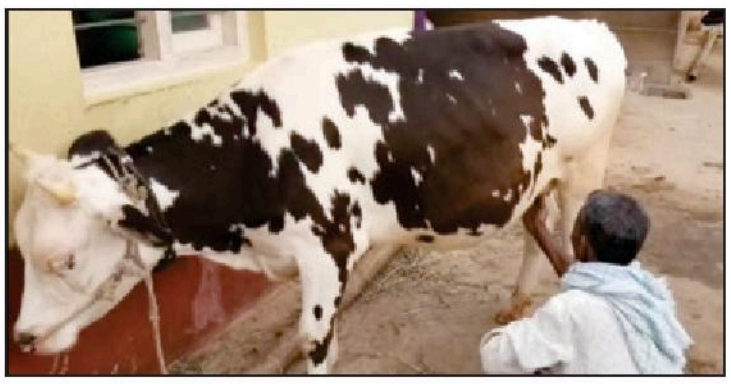
This cow at Sajjehundi village yields milk without a calf !

Mysuru, July 22 (RK&BCT)- Have you ever heard of a cow yielding milk without its calf? A cow in Varuna Constituency is giving milk without becoming pregnant and delivering a calf and is drawing hundreds of curious visitors.

The cow is owned by Mariswamy and Kempamma of Sajjehundi village and it has been giving good quality milk since a fortnight. And for the villagers, it is a miracle and hundreds of them are coming to Mariswamy's house to have a glimpse of the cow.



According to Mariswamy, the cow gives one-and-a-half litre of milk daily in the morning and evening. He said that some villagers spotted milk dripping from its udders a fortnight back. "The villagers informed me about this and as per their suggestion, I started milking the cow," he said.

Mariswamy later took the milk samples to the nearby dairy where it was certified that the milk was of good quality. The milk has good fat content and according to the dairy staff, the milk was far better than the quality of milk brought there by other villagers.

Hearing about the mystery, some veterinary doctors have visited Sajjehundi village and have examined the cow.

Justice... Delayed, Hurried and Denied

On Tuesday, the Bareilly Court sentenced three men to five years in prison for stealing Rs. 370 from a man they drugged and robbed on a train in 1988, 29 years ago! And why did it take so long? Because one of them was absconding so the trial was constantly postponed. Now, of the three, one died in 2004 and the other two are senior citizens! Isn't the anxiety and mental trauma caused due to the uncertainty of a verdict for 29 years punishment enough?

This reminds me of another heart-wrenching case of Umakanth Mishra. Umakanth worked in a post office in Harjinder Nagar area of Kanpur. Department authorities at the post office handed Umakanth Rs. 697.60 in cash to distribute as money order. Of the total Rs.697.60, Umakanth could distribute only Rs.300 and the rest he returned to his senior colleagues. But to his surprise the next day his senior colleagues accused him of stealing Rs.57.60 and lodged an FIR against him.

The Police booked Umakanth for criminal breach of trust on July 13, 1984. He was then suspended from his government job. The case went on... and on... And finally after nearly 30 years in Dec. 2013, Umakanth was absolved of the crime. Now when will government pay his arrears? Who will pay compensation for the trauma caused? Will the people who falsely accused him ever be punished?

Similarly, in Ludhiana Ashish Kumar was picked up by Police Officer Sumedh Singh Saini and taken away in a Police jeep. Ashish was never found after that! The CBI filed murder charges against Police Officer Sumedh Singh in 1994. Now twenty-three years have passed, the case is still going on and in all this time only 3 of the 36 witnesses have been heard in court! And 4 witnesses have died without being heard in court! During this time, the Officer facing the murder charge, Sumedh Singh, continued to be in Police service and even became the Director General of Punjab Police! While Ashish Kumar's mother, now 94, continues her fight to get justice for her dead son!

Justice is so delayed in our system that today courts, a place where one goes to get justice, has turned into a place where one goes to settle scores. From land deals to false dowry and rape cases, a court case is used as a mechanism not only to get justice but also to get "settlement." This strategy has created backlogs and delayed justice.

Especially false rape cases, they not only waste the court's time but worse, they delay justice to real rape victims as hearings are postponed to accommodate these false cases.

May be it's time to fine and punish people who file false cases for personal gain. In Bengaluru, between 2014 and 2016, of the 2,190 complaints of molestation filed 151 were found to be fake. Most of them were result of personal rivalry, job-related issues and family disputes.

May be, while NGOs take the case of rape victims they must also fight against people who misuse this law. Only then will our Judiciary stop being used like a blunt instrument to cause mental trauma and blackmail the honest.

No wonder the Haryana State Commission for Women ordered the Police of all districts to book cases against women whose complaints are found false during investigation.

The Haryana Police were asked to take action under Section 182, CrPC, which states that "Giving false information, with intent to cause public servant to use his lawful power to the injury of another person is punishable with imprisonment which may extend to six months."

Also it's time that Judges stop accepting frivolous Public Interest Litigations (PILs). Many PILs are more about "self interest" than "public interest," like the one where a man claimed Priyanka Gandhi had married him or where a lawyer wanted Shah Rukh Khan punished for having held the National Flag upside down momentarily.

But why are Judges admitting such PILs? Judges must be better at rejecting frivolous PILs. More importantly, we wonder if a Judge who accepts such cases, which clogs the system, can be wise, intellectual, rationale and just, the traits necessary for effective justice delivery.

Then there is the issue of "Justice Hurried." India Today magazine along with Bengaluru-based research agency DAKSH has revealed that in Karnataka High Court the average time between hearings for a case is 78 days. Which means, if you are lucky you get 4 hearings a year and each hearing will last just 6 minutes! In Patna, a Judge hears a case for only 2 minutes; one wonders if justice truly can be delivered when you hear the case for just 2 minutes? Isn't hurried justice also cause for denied justice?

Also when a person is acquitted after decades and after he has been kept in jail as an undertrial, there is no compensation that the government pays for ruining his life.

Now, judiciary is the only hope in a chaotic democracy like ours where exploitation, power and influence play significant roles. Judiciary balances the power centres. So when Justice is delayed it is Justice denied... and when denied too often... Justice dies... and with that... so will civil society.

A.H. Vishwanath questions Govt's move to denotify Lakes

Vishwanath

Mysuru, July 22 (PM&DM)- Strongly opposing the State Congress Government's move to denotify over 1,300 dried up Lakes and other major water bodies across Karnataka, former MP and JD(S) leader A.H. Vishwanath lashed out at Chief Minister Siddharamaiah, saying that the move was aimed at collecting party funds through the real estate mafia, with polls round the corner.

Addressing a press meet at Pathrakarthara Bhavan here this morning, Vishwanath termed the Government's reasoning that the Lakes would be denotified as they were disfigured over the years, as absolutely absurd.

Pointing out that while the erstwhile Maharajas of Mysuru had taken all necessary measures for conserving water bodies, Siddharamaiah, who is a democratically elected CM is now out to close the Lakes by denotifying them, which is ridiculous.

Continuing his tirade, he also sought to know why Lake encroachments by influential personalities were not evacuated, when the Bengaluru Administration had mercilessly demolished the houses of the poor.

Claiming that the Government was aiming to hand over the Lake lands to real estate mafia after denotifying them, Vishwanath wondered why the Deputy Commissioners in every district were silent on clearing encroachments.

Vishwanath further alleged that the State Government had raked up two issues — the demand for a separate State Flag and another demand for Lingayat as separate religion, in order to cover up its dismal performance and administrative failures.

Referring to the suicide of T. Narasipur Tahsildar Shankaraiah, the JD(S) leader urged the Police to make public the content of the death note which is said to have been found.

Wondering why the SP was reluctant to disclose Shankaraiah's death note, Vishwanath said the Police must make it public in order to know what made the Tahsildar to take such an extreme step.

City JD(S) President K. Harish Gowda, leaders Somasundar, B. Revanna and Channabasappa were present at the press meet.

Military Veterans to celebrate Kargil Vijay Diwas in city

Mysuru, July 22 (PM&DM)- The Military Veterans Welfare Association, Mysuru, will celebrate Kargil Vijay Diwas at Kalamandira in city on July 26 at 4pm by paying homage to the martyrs and brave soldiers.

Announcing this at a press meet at Patrakarthara Bhavan here this morning, Association President Brigadier (Retd.) Vinod K. Adappa said that Deputy Commissioner (DC) D. Randeep will be the chief guest.

The programme will be attended by Military Veterans and their dependants, NCC cadets, students of various schools and colleges and the general public.

A painting expo on martyrs and valiant war heroes who were awarded bravery medals by the President of India will be held at Suchitra Art Gallery (Suchitra Kalaashale) in Kalamandira, as part of the event, he said.

Recalling the Kargil war, Adappa said the Kargil war was fought in 1999 when Pakistan army along with Jihadi groups infiltrated into India and occupied Indian land. The Indian army, along with the Indian Air Force, showing exemplary courage and bravery, defeated Pakistan army and won the war in Kargil on July 26, 1999 after 74 days of continuous fight, when the last of the Pakistan army intruders beat a retreat. With the Pakistani forces conceding defeat and retreating, the entire country plunged into celebrations and the day of victory came to be known as Kargil Vijay Diwas, he said.

Association Secretary Commander (Retd) Lakshman and member Sridhar were present at the press meet.

Hiccups galore at Dr. Ambedkar Intl. Conference in Bengaluru

Congress Vice-President Rahul Gandhi seen with CM Siddharamaiah, American Civil Rights Activist Martin Luther King III, Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa and Leader of the Congress Party Mallikarjun Kharge, at the three-day International Conference held at the GKVK campus in Bengaluru yesterday.

Bengaluru, July 22- The 126th birth anniversary celebrations of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar, the architect of the Indian Constitution, organised by the Social Welfare Department, was inaugurated amidst hiccups galore, here yesterday.

Congress Vice-President Rahul Gandhi, Chief Minister Siddharamaiah, Leader of the Congress Party Mallikarjun Kharge, American Civil Rights Activist Martin Luther King III (son of Civil Rights Advocate Martin Luther King Jr.), Ministers H. Anjaneya, Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa, Krishna Byre Gowda and other dignitaries were present.

The State Government had been preparing for the three-day International Conference with the theme 'Quest for equity — reclaiming social justice, revisiting Ambedkar,' held at the GKVK campus, since the last one month. Nearly Rs. 20 crore is being spent and 3,000 invitations had been distributed. However, there was a seating capacity for only 1,000. As more people had turned up, majority could not find a place to sit.

Added to this, while the dignitaries were being welcomed and their names called, the bouquets were handed over to some other dignitary. The audience, clapping, had to draw the attention of the compere that it was not that person but someone else. Bollywood actress Nandita Das, who was compering, had to face an embarrassing situation because of this guffaw. She was found defending herself, "I am reading whatever is there in the script. If the organisers have committed a mistake, what can I do?" Even the dignitaries on the dais were embarrassed by this turn of events.

Nandita Das

There was another blemish while the programme was being inaugurated. When the lamp was being lighted, Minister Anjaneya was found searching for the candle. With so much of bad planning, Minister Krishna Byre Gowda was seen being upset with the organisers.

Roars of laughter: American Civil Rights Activist Martin Luther King III, with his heavily accented American English, sent the audience into peals of laughter, when he tried pronouncing Indian names.

King's address: In his inaugural address, Martin Luther King III said that because of the society's ugly structure, his father (Martin Luther King Jr.) had to lose his life. Even today, he could not forget that experience. To have an egalitarian society is very important. However, the caste system is still deep rooted. Ambedkar tried to remove the caste system. In all countries, the caste system still exists and India is not unique to this practice.

"India is the world's largest democracy and the population has also gone up. More than 60 percent of the people live below poverty line," he said and added, "I oppose caste system. The practice of untouchability is still alive. As long as it exists, the development of society is impossible. Dr. Ambedkar, like my father, fought for the education of the underprivileged," he said.

"I have visited India several times. My first visit was in 2008. But, this is my first visit to Bengaluru. It is a fast-growing city in IT," he said.

According to King, the Blacks' position has not changed in the US. There is racial divide there and all Blacks still suffer untouchability. "But we are proud to call ourselves as untouchables. In the society, women should be given equal rights. In America, women have been given complete independence. Everyone should have access to social justice. Education is the only course to set right the society," he said.

Blasts Modi: King went hammer and tongs against the policies and stand of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Government. "In Modi's Bharat, divisive politics has increased. The Hindu fundamentalism is growing in this country. There are atrocities against the Minorities. The cow vigilantes are increasing their attacks on Muslims and Dalits," he said expressing, his sadness.

Virajpet-Kerala Road to be closed for two months

MLC Veena Achaiah visits road that has collapsed near Perumbadi; assures speedy repair works

Virajpet, July 22- The road that connects Virajpet to Kerala via the Perumbadi Check-Post has been cut off, thanks to incessant rains and it will take two months to restore the road. Till then, vehicles moving towards Kerala will have to take the road via Gonikoppal, Ponnampet, Kutta to reach Manandavadi in Kerala.

The road caved-in on June 20 as water from a nearby lake at Perumbadi overflowed and entered a small culvert below the road. Due to the force of the water, the road collapsed bringing the traffic movement to a grinding halt.

Visiting the caved-in road yesterday, MLC Veena Achaiah said that temporary arrangements will be made to facilitate the movement of small vehicles and people living in border areas. As a permanent solution, the collapsed portion has to be completely excavated and should be connected with a bridge or a concrete structure.

She said that the road collapse issue had already been brought to the notice of Kodagu District In-charge Minister M.R. Seetharam and soon, CM Siddharamaiah would be told about this. "We will try and get grants from the Public Works Department so that the works can begin immediately," she said.

Kodagu District Congress President Shivu Madappa, Block Congress President R.K. Abdul Salam, D.C. Dhruvakumar of Congress Legal Cell, Town President G.G. Mohan and others were present.

Medical allowance: Calling Rly. pensioners

Mysuru, July 22- The Central Government has issued orders revising the fixed medical allowance from Rs. 500 to Rs. 1,000 with effect from July 1 and directed the pension drawing banks to draw the same to those who are in receipt of fixed medical allowances.

To enable the concerned PPO issuing authorities to revise the pension, taking the notional fixation into consideration, all the pensioners are advised to submit the details to the Divisional Financial Advisors whom PPOs are issued, according to a press release from the Railway Pensioners Welfare Association, Mysuru.

One more elephant electrocuted in Kodagu; July toll 7

Siddapur, July 22- Close on the heels of six elephants dying of electrocution in Kodagu, one more elephant died of the same cause yesterday taking the toll of elephants in July alone to seven.

A 12-year-old female elephant was electrocuted at Abyathmangala. A dry tree was found fallen on electricity wires and this might have caused the death. The carcass was spotted by some officials from Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Company (CESC) when they had been to the spot to repair fallen power lines due to incessant rains in the district.

The CESC officials alerted the Forest Department staff and District Forest Officer (DFO) Suryasen visited the spot. The DFO felt that many elephants were being electrocuted as trees near electricity poles were not cleared. Instead of taking preventive measures from the Forest Department to prevent the entry of wild elephants into private coffee estates, the DFO chose to shift the blame on coffee planters and CESC staff. He, however, claimed that the Department, despite being short-staffed, was taking several measures to drive the wild elephants back to the forests.

Claiming that coffee planters were not co-operating with the Forest Department, he said that it was the responsibility of the planters to clear dry and fallen trees from their estates after informing CESC officials. Fallen trees are good conductors of electricity and it kills elephants when they come foraging for leaves, he added.

No early polls in State, asserts Siddharamaiah

Bengaluru, July 22 (KMS&DM)- Chief Minister Siddharamaiah yesterday categorically said that the Assembly Polls will be held in April-May 2018 as scheduled.

Addressing the newly-appointed Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) office-bearers here, the Chief Minister alleged that the Opposition BJP was trying to spread rumours about early elections.

Asking party-men not to pay heed to rumours of early polls, Siddharamaiah said that elections will be held as per schedule and there should not be any confusion about this.

Maintaining that the Congress will face the elections with development track record achieved in the last four years, the CM challenged the BJP to come out for a public debate on the achievements of the State and Union Governments. The CM felicitated the new office- bearers.

Mandya farmers demand release of water to canals

Mandya, July 22- Demanding release of water to Cauvery canals and filling up of major water bodies in the district, farmers belonging to one faction of the KRRS staged a demonstration in front of Cauvery Neeravari Nigam (CNN) office here yesterday.

Hundreds of farmers, who converged on the CNN office after arriving in a procession on bullock carts on Mysuru-Bengaluru High Way, raised slogans demanding immediate release of Cauvery water in canals.

Questioning the release of water to Tamil Nadu when the KRS Dam was only half-full, the protesters wondered whether the CNN was in favour of Tamil Nadu.

The farmers warned of intensifying their protest if the authorities failed to release water to canals.

In another protest over the same issue, farmers belonging to the other faction of the KRRS led by Borapura Shankaregowda, staged a demonstration in front of the DC's office. Earlier, they marched in a procession from Silver Jubilee Park to the DC's office.

'Badanavalu has highest number of cases on atrocities against women'

Nanjangud, July 22 (RS&DM)- Nanjangud Taluk Panchayat Standing Committee Chairman Shivanna has said that it was a matter of shame that Badanavalu Police Station in the taluk has most cases of atrocities against women. Addressing a meeting with officials of various Departments at the Taluk Panchayat here yesterday, Shivanna said that Badanavalu Police Station had registered 302 cases of atrocities against women.

Emphasising that the Social Welfare Department, Women and Child Welfare Department and the Police Department should work in perfect co-ordination for preventing atrocities against women, he said that all efforts should be made for the eradication of social evils such as child marriage, child labour, human trafficking, etc.

Public Prosecutor Purushottam too spoke on the occasion. TP Accounts officer Rajeshwari, Agriculture Officer Kumaraswamy, Narayana, Manjunath and other officials attended the meeting.

WGM Soumya Swaminathan in city

"If given a good Grand Master coach, we can achieve much more success"

Woman Grandmaster (WGM) Soumya Swaminathan, an employee with PSPB, is a former National Champion (2011), World Junior Championship title winner (2009), Commonwealth Women's Champion (2012) and has finished second in the 2016 Moscow Open. The 28-year-old WGM is one of the top women chess players' in the country, and the top-seed in the ongoing 44th National Women's Challengers Chess Championships-2017 being held at Mysore Sports Club in city. SOM Sports Correspondent caught up with Soumya on the side-lines of the Tourney yesterday. Excerpts:

By C.K. Muralidharan

SOM: How did you feel after winning the 2011 National Championships and then the Commonwealth title in 2012?

Soumya: I felt elated after winning the National Championships and the Commonwealth title in a row in successive years. I was happy I could play some fighting games and ended up on the winning note.

SOM: What next from all your feats?

Soumya: I do not have any specific targets. I intend to play well in the forthcoming competition and put up a good show. I want to take it as it comes and work hard for success.

SOM: Any specific preparations for this Championship?

Soumya: Not really. I concentrated on my fitness and prepared myself mentally with some meditation and yoga sessions before coming to Mysuru.

SOM: When was your first Olympiad representation for India and your performance in the Olympiads represented so far?

Soumya: My first Olympiad was in 2012 at Turkey. I started badly in the Tournament but came back to win some important games. It was a good experience. In 2016, at Azerbaijan, I played really well and the Indian team finished 5th. I think we need a good Grand Master coach and if given that support we can achieve much more success.

SOM: Your best performance so far?

Soumya: My World Juniors win, my National Championship win in 2011, Asian Games bronze medal are all close to my heart and all of these sum my best performances so far.

SOM: About support from PSPB?

Soumya: They have been giving excellent support and are fantastic and very helpful. I play without pressure for the sake of chess and am thankful to them for splendid support.

SOM: About your future?

Soumya: As mentioned earlier, I have no specific goal. Of-course, I want to become a Grand Master. I would like to move step by step towards that goal and continue playing some fighting and interesting games to improve as a overall player.

SOM: About your coach?

Soumya: Presently I work on my own. I take specific coaching from GM Abhijit Kunte.

SOM: About the support from AICF?

Soumya: They have been conducting more number of Tournaments, but they need to have more women-specific Tournaments on Round-Robin basis and introduce chess league. If they provide us with a good Grand Master coach it would be helpful to achieve more success.

WORD OF THE DAY

Lickspittle

Pronunciation: lik-spit-l
Meaning: A contemptible, fawning person; a servile flatterer or toady; a person who behaves obsequiously to those in power.
Origin: Lickspittle was first recorded in the 1620s. It is a combination of the terms lick, an action performed by the tongue, and spittle, a blend of Middle English nouns spit and spetil "saliva" (Old English spǣtl, variant of spātl).

THE ODD WORD

Ravanastron (Ravanahatha)

Ancient Hindu stringed instrument played with a bow.

IDIOM OF THE DAY

Not the sharpest tool in the shed

Meaning: Someone who isn't witty or sharp, but rather, they are ignorant, unintelligent, or senseless.

Example: I knew my friend Jake wasn't the sharpest tool in the shed after I asked him to bring me a wrench and instead he brought a pair of pliers.
Origin: The structure placed in a person's back-yard to store belongings in (like tools) is called a shed. Just how old are these simple constructions? Finding the answer to that question would be most useful, because the phrase would obviously have to originate afterwards. However, it is not currently known when sheds started to be built for the purpose of storing things. A bit of history on the word, according to Online Etymology Dictionary, shows that the word shed used to be spelt as shadde as far back as the 15th century, and shadde may possibly be a dialect varient of the word shade. So that's something.
Now, even though the word shed goes back to at least the 15th century, this phrase appears several centuries later and is actually very recent by the looks of it. For example, the oldest written recording of this idiom that I could find was from July 1994, in the Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph, where it reads:
"Critics said that Cliburn was an intuitive artist, and that once his intuition was exhausted, he had little else to say about a piece — which was a fancy way of saying that Cliburn wasn't the sharpest tool in the shed."

A well-written life is almost as rare as a well-spent one.
